Ding Dong merrily on high, in heaven the angels singing

As the season of Christmas is here again, we thank God for granting us the privilege to see this joyful time once more. On behalf of the assistant curate, the wardens, P. C. C. and the entire church, I wish to express our warmest greetings to our brothers and sisters at St. James the Great.

Christmas is an occasion of joy, love, friendship and reunion of oneself and God. At St. Paul's, Agbozume Christmas is a time of reconciliation, reunion and joy. Parents and children, families, clans and communities prepare towards this season.

Children expect new dresses, shoes, joys, and many more from their parents. Some significant things that happen among us during Christmas are:

First, those far away from home due to jobs make time to visit home for family reunion and gathering.

Second, those for a very long time have not been to church do their best to be in church on Christmas Day. Others usually tease them by saying "if not at all, at least once in a year".

Third, special meals are prepared by every home to celebrate the day. These are shared among all and sundry in the community. This shows love, unity and togetherness.

As a church, we come together on Boxing Day to the church compound to share meals, drinks, and games such as football, volleyball, and cards among others are played that day to entertain ourselves. As we celebrate Christmas here at St. Paul's, we wish our brothers and sisters at St. James the Great a very merry Christmas.
